REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT

Spartanburg School District Four's cost effectiveness rating tied for 4th best out of 85 South Carolina school districts, according to The Center for American Progress. Contributing to this rating are several factors. The district's exceptionally high absolute performance among school districts in South Carolina is accomplished despite expending less money per pupil than all but two of those districts.

The district's student dropout rate is well below the state median. Spartanburg Four's Advanced Placement course enrollment, percentage of students attending full-day kindergarten (including four-year old kindergarten), and prime instructional time all exceed the state median, while average administrators' salaries, percentage of portable classrooms and long-term teaching vacancies are all lower than the state median.

Achieving at a high level while exercising prudence in fiscal matters is an ongoing challenge. The faculty, staff and administrators in Spartanburg School District Four accept and strive daily to meet that challenge on behalf of our students and community.
